

From: Stefan Ball, The Bach Centre, stefan@bachcentre.com, 01491 833712

Bach Centre offers registration to students and supporters

The Bach Centre is offering new options to people who want to support Dr Bach's work.

People with a general interest in Bach flower remedies can become Bach Centre Supporters, while students on Bach Centre-approved courses can become Registered Students.

As well as a dedicated newsletter, the benefits of registration include invitations to Bach Centre open days and advance notice of courses and special events. In addition, Registered Students will get discounts on books and other goods bought from the Bach Centre, as well as educational support via forums and personal email.

'We hope to widen the Bach family to include people who don't intend to work as practitioners, but would like to support Dr Bach's work,' says Stefan Ball, Registrar at the Bach Centre. 'We have a real sense of community with our Registered Practitioners, so this is the natural next step.'

The Bach Centre exists to continue the work and philosophy of Dr Edward Bach, and teaches self-help and a simple approach to natural health. Full details of the how to register can be found on the Bach Centre's web site www.bachcentre.com.

NOTES:

1. Photographs available on request
2. For more information on the Bach Centre see www.bachcentre.com
3. Bach flower remedies were discovered in the 1920s and 1930s by Dr Edward Bach, a Harley Street consultant and bacteriologist
4. The Bach Centre was Dr Bach's home and workplace from 1934 to his death in 1936
5. Bach flower remedies are a complementary medicine that helps resolve imbalanced emotional states, which can in turn lead to improvements in general health
6. The best-known Bach flower remedy is sold under the trade name Rescue™ Remedy